LOCAL MENTION.

Hot—hotter—hotter—hotter to say it. The farmers here are not to complain of this year.

County court business at Hardinsburg Monday was very light.

Every body—except us—was out busy riding Sunday afternoon.

R. F. Hulse was away all day Monday paying out the school money.

Miss Mada Root, of Union Star was a passenger down on the Louisville Star today.

We were asked by several farmers at Hardinsburg, last week, what the agent here for the Fall City was.

Mr. H. M. Hammond, of Lexington, Ky., says: "I have been in Reckenridge, and am so much interested in the place."

Dr. W. B. Hulse's new house is ready for the plasterer, and will, when done, add greatly to the looks of the place.

After a dozen "navies" left for Louisville Sunday on the Rainier. They said they could not make any thing of the place.

Mr. Lannie Greenwell & Co. have opened out a hardware store in the "new town" at Louisville.

Mike says he wishes there were two or three more.

Mr. C. N. Brandford, from Owensboro, is putting up a mill at Hardinsburg for sawing hickory handles of all kinds. It is located on the river, at the corner of the city.

Mr. Thos. J. Kelly, of Louisville, and Mr. Dan Brooks, of Louisville, are in the city, at the corner of the city.

The partnership between Messrs. J. H. Fleming, of Henderson, and J. E. Keith, of this city, in the business of the "new town" at Louisville, has been dissolved. Mr. Keith with drawing.

Dr. Dan Haulinger, who was in prison a length of time for the beating of his brother for murdering David Cox, has been released. He is now in the city.

Plenty of lumber in the bank, but we could not find any more machinery to manufacture our fine timber. Cheapest will never be any thing more than a name.

There has been a lot of improving call from several of our neighbors, and we are now in a position to supply them with all the goods we can get.
